HEISINKI

- Helsinki Cathedral - is the Finnish Evangelical Lutheran cathedral of the Diocese of Helsinki built from 1830-1852 as a tribute to the Grand Duke of Finland, Tsar Nicholas I of Russia. It was also known as St Nicholas' Church until the independence of Finland in 1917.
- Uspenski Orthodox Cathedral - is on Scandinavia's largest Orthodox Church, the Finns also called "Russian Church." The church was built in 1868, is a typical red brick green roof Byzantine architecture.

TALLINN

- Kadriorg Palace- Can be considered to be the grandest example of palace and park design in Estonian architectural history. The palace, originally an imperial summer residence, has been extremely well preserved since the early 18th century. Designed to resemble the Italian palaces of the time.
- Tallinn Old Town - The Old Town of Tallinn belongs to the best preserved of Europe. Labyrinth of cobblestone streets and alleys, surrounded by powerful city walls offer the feeling of merchants dealing on the streets like during Tallinn's golden age, that lasted from 15th to 16th century.
- Tallinn Town Hall - is a building in the Tallinn Old Town, Estonia, next to the Town Hall Square. It is the oldest town hall in the whole of the Baltic region and Scandinavia. The tower is 64 metres. It is a two-story building with a spacious basement. The vane Old Thomas on the top of the Town Hall's tower that has been there since 1530 has become one of the symbols of Tallinn.

KAUNAS

- House of Perkunas - is one of the most original and archaic Gothic secular buildings, located in the Old Town of Kaunas, Lithuania. The House of Perkūnas was included into the Registry of Immovable Cultural Heritage Sites of the Republic of Lithuania in 1996.
- Kaunas Castle - Is the first stone castle in Lithuania, which was originally built in the middle of the 14th century, at the confluence of Nemunas and Neris rivers. The emergence of Kaunas Castle provided foundation for the emergence of Kaunas city.
